

Stuart Barrett
Vice President of Customer Service
Entergy Texas

Stuart Barrett serves as the vice president of customer service for Entergy Texas, Inc. In this role, Barrett leads an organization focused exclusively on delivering exceptional customer service to more than 450,000 customers across Southeast Texas. Barrett leads a coordinated focus by integrating customer service, customer support, energy efficiency and community development.

Previously, Barrett served as director of resource planning and market operations for Entergy Texas since 2014. In this role, he was responsible for the planning of fuel, generation, transmission and wholesale power activities.

Barrett came to Entergy Texas after serving three years as director of commercial operations for all Entergy Operating Companies. His position, based in Texas, involved the negotiation and procurement of limited- and long-term purchased power agreements, acquisition of generation resources, renewable transactions and long-term commodity and transportation contracts for coal supply. He has held various other positions within Entergy in his 21 years with the company.

Barrett began his career with Entergy in 1997, first as an analyst in the accounting department, then as a part of the finance department's utility planning group to focus on the production of five-year business plans for the utility.

Barrett earned a bachelor's degree from Louisiana State University and an MBA from the University of New Orleans.
